Jeff has represented major companies in connection with patent procurement activities for programmable logic devices, disk-drive and memory controllers, consumer electronics, household appliances, medical devices, productivity software. In particular, Jeff represented Taunton Technologies, Inc. and VISX, Inc. in interference proceedings relating to pioneering laser eye surgery patents. In addition, he represented Aerotel, Ltd. in multiple reexaminations of its pioneering prepaid calling card patent.

Jeff began his patent law career in 1982 at the law firm of Fish & Neave, where he worked until its merger with Ropes & Gray in 2005. After that worked at Ropes & Gray until the patent practice spin-off of Ropes & Gray to form Haley Guiliano. In his spare time, Jeff likes to travel with his wife and enjoys anything to do with science fiction.
