

Attorneys

Haley Guiliano thrives at the intersection of technology, business, and law. We deeply value real world experience and we believe that having people with experience beyond Intellectual Property law on our team makes us better lawyers. Our attorneys have architected thin client web applications, served on non-profit boards, built merchant payment systems, founded Internet companies, and researched at Bell Labs to name a few extracurriculars. Being a great lawyer matters too. We expect our lawyers to grow through both doing for themselves and receiving mentorship along the way. HG invests in our attorneys by seeking out management responsibilities for them within the firm's teams and bringing them directly into our problem solving process for clients. It is important to our clients that our teams have experience with the full life cycle of intellectual property and that is only gained by encouraging our attorneys to get "hands on" with a spectrum of work, from rights creation through rights management. We welcome inquiry from talented attorneys – whether you are a recent graduate or a seasoned veteran — interested in honing their skills with immediate responsibility.
