Zeashaan Akhmed joined Haley Guiliano as an experienced engineer passionate about IP strategy. Having worked at several multinational companies across the aerospace, automotive, and power generation sectors. Zeashaan is dedicated to helping clients protect their valuable innovation by leveraging his deep understanding of engineering subjects and data analytics.

As an IP strategist, he has a background in delivering change initiatives, forming effective strategies for the use of IP analytics within business, influencing company technology strategy and executive decision-making. Zeashaan has supported large groups of directors, managers, and engineers in identifying, documenting, and protecting valuable innovation and IP across the UK and Europe while identifying both technology and business opportunities based on IP analytics and highlighting potential threats from competitors, NPEs, and regulatory bodies.

In his free time, Zeashaan enjoys traveling with friends and family, reading history, and working on engineering projects.
